

When people enjoy things, their attitude shifts.

They feel recognised and inspired, and a connection with each other – a sense of common purpose. Tailor-made live interventions get people’s attention, because they’re human and real. Here are some recent projects we’ve delighted our clients with:

We blend our creative skills with an understanding of how people in the workplace think, feel and act to make learning come alive with experiences that are smart, slick and funny. We specialise in ‘tricky’ workplace issues. Since 2001, we’ve produced corporate and industrial theatre, ambush theatre, street theatre, video, radio inserts, publicity campaigns, comics, online interactions, live installations and entire conferences about fraud, diversity, change and restructuring, the customer, new legislation, values, work/life balance and a host of wellness issues, such as substance abuse, disease management and disability, in every workplace context known to humankind!

TakeAway is run by Sean O’Connor, BA (Hons.) H.D.E., MPhil., and is a Level 4 BBBEE value-added exempt micro-enterprise. Please contact Sean on 083.9888.258 or via email, and visit us at www.takeawaytheatre.com. Thanks for your attention!
